Brackets.

—Musical to-night.

—Give Mrs. Bindiff a rousing house to-night.

—There was no criminal business before the municipal court to-day.

—We have seen the programme for this evening's musical and can safely say it is a choice one.

—Miss May Phoenix, of Chicago, has arrived, and will be at the musical in Lappin's music hall.

—Major S. S. Rockwood and family have settled in this city, and have taken up their residence at No. 38 South Jackson street.

—This is not very profitable weather for ice cream and soda water vendors.

The ice dealers make their daily rounds just the same.

—The sale of the goods of the late firm of Palmer & Nesselrode, by Deputy Sheriff Drake was continued to-day, drawing the usual crowd.

—There are now, on an average, fifty trains running through Janesville on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and the Chicago and Northwestern railways each day, which makes the depot and vicinity quite lively places.

—We call attention to the card of Nelson brothers, the new liverymen, located on the corner of Court and Water streets, near the lower bridge.

Their stock of vehicles are new, and of the best designs; the horses are the best, and charges as low as the lowest. With good stock and fair dealing they solicit a share of the public patronage.

—The remains of the late Mrs. F. W. Leland, of Chicago, sister of Mrs. G. Yeeder of this city, arrived here on the 1:40 train this afternoon, and were met at the cars by a number of the sympathizing friends in this city, notwithstanding the cold rain which prevailed at the hour. The remains were taken direct to Oak Hill cemetery for interment.

—Governor Rusk has issued a commission to Dr. Thor. Judd, of this city, to be quartermaster of the first regiment.

—From the Council Bluffs department of the Omaha Bee, May 2nd: "Albert J. Glass, the vice-president and manager of the Janesville Machine company, Janesville, Wis., was in the city yesterday looking after the agricultural machinery men."

—Mr. L. D. Robinson, one of the clerks in Sonneborn's star clothing house, has displayed in one of the large show windows of that establishment, a case of taxidermy, consisting of a collection of different birds and small animals, which he has arranged with great care and skill, evincing that he possesses the skill of a professional of that art. The whole case, including the arranging of the different birds, the scenic effects, etc., is the work of his hands. It is undoubtedly the handsomest collection of the taxidermist art in the city.

—At a meeting of the Mutual Protection association held May 3d, Mr. John G. Saxe was elected secretary for the ensuing year in place of F. S. Lawrence, resigned. Mr. L. B. Kinney has also retired from active work for the association. All other officers remain the same as last year. Both of the above named gentlemen were pioneer workers in the association and have many friends who will regret that other business compels them to place the work in other hands. Mr. L. B. Kinney represents some of the most reliable fire insurance companies in the world, and will be glad to meet his old friends at his office opposite First National bank.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS BYRNE.

The old residents of Janesville were saddened this forenoon at the announcement of the death of Mr. Thomas Byrne, which occurred at his home, No. 61 Chatham street, first ward, at about 9 o'clock, after two weeks sickness of pneumonia in the 66th year of his age. Mr. Byrne settled in Janesville in the spring of 1848, and was engaged in business as a mason. His steady, exemplary, and unassuming habits gained for him friends among all classes. He was a member of the Masonic order of Janesville Lodge No. 55. Besides a large circle of friends, he leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place at his late residence on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Horace Gates, rector of Trinity church, officiating, after which he will be buried in accordance with the beautiful ritualistic rites of the Masonic order.

CLOTHING TRADE.

Those who are engaged in this business in Janesville.

The clothing trade of Janesville is one of no small magnitude, and will compare favorably with that of any city of the size of Janesville in the west. Not only is there an enormous capital invested in ready made clothing and goods furnishing goods, but there are large investments in merchant tailoring stocks, and the manufacture of custom clothing is an item which reaches magnificent proportions in the aggregate. This branch of the clothing made in this city gives steady employment to a large number of men and women, who earn good wages. The largest stores in Janesville, with few exceptions, are devoted exclusively to the ready made clothing trade, each one of which carry as large and varied assortment of goods as can be found in any retail establishment in the state. Our clothing dealers are all veterans in the business here, having commenced their business with the intention of doing a legitimate trade and making their homes permanently among us. There are no dealers now connected with the trade, but have been residents of Janesville many years, and some date their residence back of the adoption of even a village government—thirty years or more. Their long continuance in trade is evidence of fair and honest dealing; that they keep good goods and dispose of them to their customers at fair prices. Those engaged in the ready-made clothing trade at the present time are:

Messrs. M. C. Smith & Son, the celebrated one-price clothing house, corner of Main and East Milwaukee streets.

Fred. Sonneborn, the Star clothing house, Myers house block, corner of Main and East Milwaukee streets.

R. M. Bostwick, Main street, opposite Myers house.

Foot & Wilcox, West Milwaukee street.

W. C. Holmes & Son, west end of Milwaukee street bridge.

J. L. Ford, corner of West Milwaukee and River streets.

The above six firms do the business of supplying the people of this vicinity with ready-made clothing and goods, furnishing goods, and when a customer fails to find an article suitable to his taste in any of the above establishments, his time will be thrown away looking elsewhere—for it cannot be found.

Besides conducting the ready made clothing trade on a large scale, Messrs. Fred. Sonneborn, Foot & Wilcox, W. C. Holmes & Son, and J. L. Ford, do an immense amount of merchant tailoring work, each employing a large force of the best workmen, and are constantly vying with each other in turning out the best garments. The competition in this branch of the business in Janesville is so strong and close that our people are thus enabled to procure the best goods made to order for about the same price they would pay for a like article in a ready made clothing establishment. The reputations of the above establishments are all well known in this community, all being old residents of the city, and all intending to remain.

Besides the above dealers there are several other firms who are engaged exclusively in the merchant tailoring business, among them being Mr. J. L. Shea, North Main street.

Miles Doran, Grand hotel, West Milwaukee street.

Fred. Feltz, West Milwaukee street.

E. Yoerk, East Milwaukee street, opposite Myers opera house.

In all there are ten firms engaged in the clothing and merchant tailoring business in Janesville, and while the business is not overdone, the competition is always such that our people are enabled to procure the best goods at fair prices. In fact customers can purchase such articles as they want. The stocks are always complete in seasonable goods.

The season for the display of spring and summer goods has arrived, and our citizens have but to visit any one of the above establishments to be convinced that our dealers are all up with the times in securing the latest and best goods in the market.

In the line of gent's furnishing goods, their stocks cannot be excelled. They embrace every article known to the trade, and some of the larger dealers have their stocks so displayed that one is at a loss to make a choice of the best article for his suit.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning, the thermometer registered 42 degrees above zero. Cloudy with a north wind. At one p. m. the register was at 47 degrees above zero. Rain—wind northeast. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 58 and 60 degrees above zero.

Keene's Richelieu.

One of the greatest characters which Mr. Thomas W. Keene impersonates, is Cardinal Richelieu, in Lord Bulwer's great play of that name. It is a grand play in the hands of a great actor. There are climaxes in Richelieu which Mr. Keene reaches with wonderful ease and almost marvelous skill. He never fails to interest his audience, and is never weak at any point where power and genius are demanded. Reserved seats are now for sale at Prentice & Evanson's.

Where the Money Goes.

This morning a weary looking pilgrim was seen wending his way from the morning train, trudging along the streets with two mysterious looking bags, one in each hand. He turned neither to the right nor to the left, but tightened his grip to the bags, said nothing to anybody, until he reached Buchholz's wagon shop. After looking carefully around, he slipped into the office, threw down the heavy bags with a sigh of great relief. It proved to be the first importation of silver into the city from the Burr Robbins show.

We simply give these facts to show what Burr Robbins does in the show business. He goes away to make his money, brings it back, and pays it out for the benefit of the merchants and business men of the city. Burr Robbins believes in encouraging home industry, and always practices what he preaches and believes.

Refrigerators.

Speaking about refrigerators, we called at the restaurant of Mr. George Shurtliff, West Milwaukee street, this morning, and inspected a new refrigerator, just put in to his establishment, which is of the Jackson patent, manufactured in this city by Messrs. Shopbell & Norris, and are compelled to say that it seems to be the best refrigerator for general purposes and for family use to be found. The one put up for Mr. Shurtliff is of the larger size, intended for hotels or restaurants. Smaller ones for private families are also manufactured by this firm, and are all made of the best seasoned hard wood, finished in oil, and make one of the most useful pieces of furniture which can be put into a house. The following compose some of the points of superiority possessed by this refrigerator: "The purest air that can be possibly attained, and dry as a sleeping room, no matter what the outside influences. As a test, take matches—the most sensitive article in house use—and wet perfectly wet, and put in the refrigerator over night, when properly charged with ice or water. The matches will ignite anywhere on the walls inside the cooling room in the morning. They are simple in construction and scientific in their practical working. They require no washing out or cleaning unless something be spilled. The construction is such that the warm air from the lower or cooling room is carried to near the top of the ice room, where it comes in contact with the surface of the ice or water, if water is used, when all the gases are absorbed and condensed, and so pass off with the drip through the waste pipe. The consumption of ice is a matter of interest to everyone using it. There is no refrigerator made which, with the same temperature, and like conditions of use, will use as little ice as the Jackson system, and for these reasons: The ice (or water, if water be used), is entirely overhead. Warm air will ascend and cold air will descend. The cool air is direct into the cooling room. The warm air is not brought in contact with the body of ice, but the top, nor are there ventilators too open to carry off the warm air. The nearer air-tight the room the less ice consumed. The larger the body of ice the longer will it last in proportion."

Messrs. Shopbell and Norris are making large numbers of these refrigerators, which find a ready sale, their sales amounting to more than that of all others combined. A close inspection convinces all of its excellence. They have just completed one of the largest size for Mr. Richard Rooney, for his meat market, which is now being used for his market purposes on Milwaukee street bridge.

The world-wide reputation of N. K. Brown's Ess. Jamaica Ginger is a phenomena of the century.

Dorsey Found Guilty.

The trial of Thomas Dorsey in the municipal court yesterday afternoon, on charge of robbing Andrew Jennings on the night of Saturday, April 21st, was concluded late in the afternoon. The jury, after the evidence had all been given, visited the place where the robbery took place, and upon returning to the court room, the case was given into their hands. The jury retired and upon the first ballot found Dorsey guilty, and so returned their verdict. Dorsey was sent back to jail to await sentence of the court, which will probably not be pronounced until after the trial of Broderick. Dorsey's attorney submitted a motion for a new trial, and it is not yet known what the result of this motion will be.

The Spectacular Wonder.

On Saturday evening Kiralfy's Black Crook combination will appear at Myers opera house. "The piece itself is founded on the legend of 'Herzog, the Sorcerer,' (the Black Crook), and the skill of the painter and machinist have been taxed to their utmost in giving effect to the story as represented on the stage. The specialty acts introduced throughout the piece will be numerous and pleasing. Among the most brilliant will be that of Mlle Marie Bonfant, Premiere Danseuse of the world, ably supported by Mlle Ortori, Premiere Assoluto, Mons. Novissimo and a corps de ballet of 20 young ladies, as Coryphees, Amazons, &c., in rich and dazzling costumes. The scenery is said to excel anything of its kind. The dramatic company is large and well selected, and everything, so far as outward appearances indicate, promise a highly interesting and brilliant entertainment."

A Successful Harness Maker.

Perhaps the most successful harness maker in Janesville, the one who enjoys the largest patronage, is Mr. James A. Fathers, whose store and shop is located on the corner of Main and Court street. Mr. Fathers is a young man, full of activity, and one who believes in attending strictly to his legitimate business as the safest road to success and fortune.

After learning his trade with Mr. C. H. Payne, and proving that he was competent to carry on the business of manufacturing and dealing in harness, horse clothing, and goods pertaining to that business, he purchased the establishment, and in January 1881 succeeded that gentleman in the harness business. Mr. Fathers at once commenced the work of manufacturing all the harnesses kept in his store, and determined that by using the best material and employing the best workmen, he would build up a patronage in this country, second to none. How well he has succeeded, a visit to his establishment will convince any one that he has so far been very successful. His shops turn out all kinds of harnesses, from the strong, heavy and durable team harness, to the lightest and finest in the world, in all cases using none but the best material, so that he is enabled to represent his work as the best, and its use by his customers always proves that the goods are as represented. He is now enjoying an immense trade, and has a large force of men constantly employed in the manufacture of his harnesses. Having worked up a large and profitable trade, he proposes by fair dealing and the sale of the best of goods to keep it. He also keeps in stock, all kinds of goods usually on sale in a first class harness store, which he offers at as low a price as such articles can be sold for. Parties in search of anything in this line will consult their own interest by inspecting Mr. Father's stock.
